After building a community of over 1,300 women navigating life transitions, Jessica brings this conversation to stages

When the role that defined you ends...
most women don't feel free.
They feel lost.

Jessica's work is grounded in lived experience, not theory, and resonates with women navigating real-life transitions.

What began as a single question—who am I now?—became an identity shift that changed everything.

I left a 15-year corporate career, sold everything I owned, and traveled to over 20 countries alone.
Not to escape my life—
but to understand who I was without it.

But this isn't a story about travel.

It's about what happens when the life you built no longer fits—and you have to rebuild from the inside out.

Today, I help women navigate life transitions, reconnect with who they are, and step into their next chapter with clarity and self-trust.

SIGNATURE TALKS

Fearless Empty Nester™

When the role that defined you changes, this talk gives women the language, permission, and a clear path forward—so they can move from uncertainty into direction and self-trust.

The Identity Crisis No One Talks About

This talk names what so many women feel but rarely say out loud—so women can understand what they're experiencing and move through it with clarity—and begin moving forward, even before everything makes sense.

The Space In-Between

For the woman doing everything right and still not feeling settled — a talk about moving forward before clarity arrives.

If your audience is navigating change, identity, or what comes next—
Jessica delivers a message they won't just hear...
they'll recognize as their own.
